The Paradox of Now

“It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of light, it was the season of darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair.”

— Charles Dickens, A Tale of Two Cities

Whether it's the best of times or the worst of times, it's the only time we've got.

AZ QUOTES

Cool stuff we did in 2025

- We tapped into the Soul of Cities
- We explored and Challenged Leadership
- We cared for our Mental Health and wellbeing
- We Connected people, places, perspectives and planet
  - in short, we Humaned. We leaned into the tough questions and listened to our inner wisdom, to each other, to nature, to the traditions and collective knowing of our peoples, our place, our histories, and we tapped into the deeper sources of life and love that infuse our world — beyond the apparent crises that dominate our media and mind-space.

What came of it all?

- Less fear and more love
- Better discernment of facts and news stories
- More trust in each other
- No less concern for the present or the future
- A capacity to listen and learn from/with nature
- The need for play, mystery, hope and vision
- Greater connection to awe, wonder, love, and life

What are we waiting for?

We are the ones we've been waiting for.

To be the change we want to see in this world means allowing our selves – our physical, spiritual, emotional, and mental being – to be nourished, held, oriented and connected. But it's subtle ... just as the roots of a tree may find rich veins of water and nutrients flowing through the earth, so may we. Only for us, the connection is both less material and more ethereal, but nonetheless powerful and life giving.

To be the change we listen. We connect. We grow roots. We hold hands. We bear witness. We realize our potential as more than separate voices howling in the storm. This is how we turn the tide.

What's to be done?

This is the time of The Great Realization — a time when the global ecocivilisation takes root — a time when the seeds we have been planting in the cracks of the concrete begin to sprout. It will still be some time before they blossom and bear fruit, but we are coming to understand that there is only one way forward, and that is together.

Life creates conditions conducive to life.

- Janine Benyus

Humanity has reached a bridge
that can only be crossed in unity

Be the change...
